VersaFrame is your metal roofing and siding experts

In just 10 years VersaFrame Inc. has become one of the industry leaders in metal roofing and siding manufacturing in Western Canada.

"We have a mandate to supply top quality products, industry leading service and factory direct pricing to the agricultural, commercial and residential sectors," said sales manager Jeremy Smukowich.

"The business has been popular due to competitive pricing and our quick turn around service. I have worked at trade shows and have heard great stories about our service," he added. "Customers told me they showed up in the morning and needed sheets right away and our team produced the sheets, while the customer waited and had them back on their way."

After just starting out in Nisku as a privately owned Canadian small business, the company has grown to include 15 manufacturing sites from British Columbia to Manitoba.

"We are able to better serve our customers with faster turnaround times and have more convenient pickup locations," Jeremy said.

VersaFrame offers metal custom roll forming with state of the art equipment capable of forming various profiles in the lengths that you require.

Each location has brakes and shears that cut and bend up to 18 gauge material to suit your bending requirements.

"We sell direct to contractors as well as the public. This has offered savings to both parties as you are buying direct from the manufacture."

VersaFrame stocks a full line of accessories such as fasteners and closures to go with their products. Whether you are roofing your barn, siding your house or commercial building, VersaFrame has the right materials to get the job done right.

"When you commit to use us as a supplier, we will be committed to ensuring that you are getting the best service and pricing in a very competitive industry. At the same time, you will receive the highest quality of products to fit your building needs," he stated.

Metal products come in a wide variety of gauges, materials and colours.

"With our company supplying the agricultural world, it is a best fit to have locations in the rural areas. However, we have also picked locations to service major city centers."

Locations all within 20 to 60 minutes of cities. This has allowed VersaFrame to reach out to more customers. The business knows people will only travel so far for savings. Time is money.

In Alberta, VersaFrame has locations in Nisku, Holden, Westlock, St. Paul, Torrington, Drumheller, Lethbridge, Granum and Medicine Hat.

Other locations include Regina, Biggar, Leask, High Bluff, Decker and Fort St. John.

For more information about VersaFrame and our products, visit our website at www.versaframe.ca or call head office at 780-979-0325.

Harvest Screen

Our first prototype was with a clear lexan shield. It seemed to help but not in all conditions.

What we found was that in windy conditions, you would get high-pressure at the front of the shield. If you had a large swath coming in along with incoming wind, we were noticing a lot of losses out the sides. This is what steered us in the direction of using screen.

After a few prototypes, we decided on a vinyl-coated polyester industrial screen.

What the screen does is diffuse all pressure and allows seed to fall instead of deflecting out the sides.

By using this approach, it eliminates the need of a frame to contain a solid shield. It also gives you the option of having it quick attach and detach.

Investing in a Harvest Screen® will give you a quick return on investment
